

That's what you call a fatfish!

A GROUP of British anglers couldn't believe their eyes when they hooked a 15st catfish.

It took five men to land the monster, the biggest freshwater fish caught by a British angler.

The 7ft 7in long female was heaved out of a lake near Barcelona.

Duncan Rooke, right, and his pals Stephen Buss, Brian Dunlop and David Moore, all from Surrey, took nearly an hour to get her out of the water and into the weighing net.

They then let the fish go.

MY FINGER'S A BIT FISHY